

HUMAN RESOURCES POLICY

For an IT & Technology Company

Effective Date: 26 August 2026

Policy Owner: Human Resources Department

Version: 1.0

This policy establishes consistent workplace standards, employee expectations, benefits, responsibilities, and HR procedures for all employees of the Company. It is designed to support a professional, inclusive, productive, secure, and respectful technology workplace.

1. Purpose and Scope

This policy applies to all full-time employees, part-time employees, interns, trainees, consultants, and other personnel working under the Company's direction, subject to the terms of their engagement.

The purpose of this policy is to provide clear guidance on employment practices, attendance, conduct, leave, performance, compensation, workplace safety, information security, confidentiality, and separation from employment.

2. Equal Opportunity and Non-Discrimination

The Company is committed to providing equal employment opportunities and making employment decisions based on qualifications, performance, business requirements, and legitimate job-related factors.

The Company does not tolerate discrimination, harassment, bullying, or unfair treatment in recruitment, compensation, promotion, training, performance management, or any other employment activity.

Employees are expected to treat colleagues, customers, partners, and visitors with professionalism and respect.

3. Recruitment and Employment

All hiring decisions must follow the Company's approved recruitment process. Employees may be required to provide accurate identity, education, experience, and employment information.

Misrepresentation of qualifications, documents, experience, or other material information may result in withdrawal of an offer or disciplinary action.

Employment terms, designation, compensation, probation, notice period, and other applicable conditions will be communicated through the employee's appointment or employment letter.

4. Working Hours and Attendance

Employees are expected to follow the working schedule communicated by their department or manager. Depending on the role, the Company may operate flexible, hybrid, or remote working arrangements.

Employees must maintain reliable attendance, join required meetings on time, and communicate delays or absences to their manager as early as reasonably possible.

Where attendance systems are used, employees must accurately record their working time. Falsifying attendance records is prohibited.

5. Remote and Hybrid Work

Remote or hybrid work is permitted only where approved by the Company and where the role is suitable for such an arrangement.

Employees working remotely must maintain a professional work environment, protect Company information, remain reachable during agreed working hours, and comply with all information-security requirements.

Remote work is not a substitute for approved leave. Employees who are unavailable for work must follow the applicable leave or absence process.

6. Leave and Time Off

Employees are entitled to leave and holidays in accordance with their employment terms and applicable law.

Planned leave should be requested in advance through the Company's designated HR or leave-management process and should be approved by the relevant manager.

Unexpected absence due to illness or an emergency should be communicated promptly. Supporting documentation may be requested where permitted by applicable law and Company policy.

Employees must not represent themselves as available for work while taking approved leave unless a specific work arrangement has been authorized.

7. Compensation, Payroll, and Benefits

Salary and other eligible compensation will be paid according to the employee's employment agreement and the Company's payroll schedule.

Employees are responsible for providing accurate payroll and statutory information. Changes to bank, tax, contact, or other relevant information should be reported promptly.

Benefits, reimbursements, incentives, insurance, and allowances are subject to the applicable Company plans, eligibility requirements, employment terms, and law.

8. Performance Management

The Company uses performance management to establish expectations, provide feedback, recognize achievements, identify development needs, and address performance gaps.

Employees are expected to understand their goals, deliver assigned work responsibly, participate in reviews, and respond constructively to feedback.

Where performance does not meet reasonable expectations, the Company may provide coaching, additional support, improvement plans, or other appropriate measures.

9. Professional Conduct

Employees must act honestly, professionally, and responsibly in all Company-related activities.

Employees must avoid conflicts of interest and promptly disclose situations that could improperly influence, or appear to influence, their professional judgment.

Threatening behavior, violence, intimidation, fraud, theft, deliberate misconduct, retaliation, and serious breaches of Company policy are prohibited.

Employees must use Company property, systems, accounts, and resources responsibly and only for authorized purposes.

10. Anti-Harassment and Respectful Workplace

The Company maintains a zero-tolerance approach to workplace harassment, sexual harassment, bullying, and retaliation.

Employees should raise concerns through their manager, HR, designated grievance channel, or another reporting mechanism made available by the Company.

Reports will be handled as confidentially as reasonably possible, consistent with the need to investigate and comply with applicable law. Retaliation against a person who raises a concern in good faith is prohibited.

11. Information Security and Acceptable Use

Because the Company operates in the technology sector, employees must follow all applicable information-security standards and instructions.

Employees must protect passwords, authentication credentials, devices, source code, customer information, internal documents, and other confidential assets.

Company systems must not be used to access, store, transmit, or distribute unlawful, malicious, abusive, or unauthorized material.

Employees must promptly report suspected phishing, malware, data loss, unauthorized access, security incidents, or accidental disclosure to the appropriate internal team.

12. Confidentiality and Data Protection

Employees may have access to confidential information relating to the Company, customers, employees, vendors, products, technology, finances, and business strategy.

Confidential information must be accessed only when necessary for authorized work and must not be disclosed to unauthorized persons.

Employees must comply with applicable privacy and data-protection requirements and the Company's internal data-handling procedures.

Confidentiality obligations may continue after employment ends, subject to applicable law and the terms of the employee's agreement.

13. Intellectual Property

Work products, inventions, designs, documentation, software, source code, processes, and other intellectual property created in the course of employment may belong to the Company to the extent provided by applicable law and the employee's agreement.

Employees must respect third-party intellectual-property rights and must not knowingly use unauthorized software, content, code, images, or other protected materials for Company work.

14. Learning and Development

The Company encourages continuous learning, technical development, knowledge sharing, leadership development, and professional growth.

Employees may participate in training programs, certifications, workshops, mentoring, or other development initiatives subject to business needs and applicable approval processes.

15. Workplace Health, Safety, and Security

Employees must follow workplace safety, emergency, access-control, and security procedures.

Any unsafe condition, accident, threat, or security concern should be reported promptly to the appropriate Company representative.

Employees are expected to maintain a safe and professional workplace whether working from a Company office, client location, or approved remote environment.

16. Grievance and Complaint Handling

Employees may raise workplace concerns regarding conduct, employment practices, compensation, harassment, discrimination, safety, or other issues through the Company's designated HR or grievance channels.

Employees should provide factual information and cooperate honestly with investigations.

The Company will review concerns fairly and take appropriate action based on the facts, applicable policy, and legal requirements.

17. Disciplinary Action

Policy violations may result in corrective or disciplinary action depending on the nature and seriousness of the matter.

Possible actions may include counseling, written warnings, performance measures, suspension where legally permitted, or termination of employment, subject to applicable law and Company procedures.

Serious misconduct may result in immediate disciplinary action where appropriate.

18. Separation and Exit Process

Employees leaving the Company must follow the notice and resignation requirements stated in their employment agreement and applicable law.

Before the final working day, employees must return Company property, complete knowledge transfer, close or transfer assigned work, and cooperate with the exit process.

Access to Company systems may be withdrawn or modified as part of the separation process. Confidentiality and other continuing obligations remain applicable where required.

19. Policy Administration and Updates

HR is responsible for administering this policy and coordinating with management and relevant internal functions.

The Company may amend, replace, or withdraw this policy when business requirements, technology, employment practices, or applicable laws change.

Employees will be informed of material policy changes through appropriate internal communication channels.

Employee Acknowledgement

By joining or continuing employment with the Company, employees are expected to read, understand, and comply with this HR Policy and all other applicable Company policies, procedures, employment terms, and legal requirements.

Important: This document is a general HR policy template for an IT company. It should be reviewed and adapted by the Company's HR/legal team to reflect the applicable jurisdiction, employment contracts, statutory requirements, and internal procedures.
